

Photos: Jockeys, local notables play softball at East Side Rec to benefit Permanently Disabled Jockeys Fund

Published: Tuesday, August 31, 2010

On Monday, jockeys played a softball game at East Side Rec against notable Capital Region personalities, including Saratoga Springs Mayor Scott Johnson, Saratoga County Chamber of Commerce President Todd Shimkus, Saratoga Springs Downtown Business Association President Jeff Clark and many other business leaders and local news personalities. Luke Romano, a 16-year-old who has been battling leukemia for the past six years, threw the honorary first pitch. The event raised money for the Permanently Disabled Jockeys Fund.

